

Health Access Solutions' Executive to Speak on Payer-Provider Integration at HIMSS 11

Dr. Wayne Pan to discuss how care coordination aligns objectives of key healthcare stakeholders; will present case study information on California successes

Foster City, Calif. – Feb. 9, 2011 – Health Access Solutions, offering a Web-based multidisciplinary care coordination platform, announced today that Dr. Wayne Pan, Chief Medical Officer for its parent firm Pacific Partners Management Services, Inc. (PPMSI), will deliver a presentation at the 2011 Health Information and Management Systems Society (HIMSS) conference in Orlando, Fla. Dr. Pan will address the annual meeting of healthcare IT leaders and executives at 2:15 p.m. on Feb. 23. in a one-hour session entitled “The New American Team Sport: Provider-Payer Integration.”

Dr. Pan’s presentation will focus on the U.S. healthcare industry’s critical need for a collaborative team approach – with providers and payers working together across the spectrum of patient care – to improve access, delivery, quality and cost-efficacy for all stakeholders. The session will feature proven provider-payer integration and coordination strategies for achieving these “win-win” goals.

Randall Frakes, CEO of Health Access Solutions and PPMSI, points out that Dr. Pan brings significant expertise to the topic. He has served as a practicing physician, and held executive leadership positions with managed care and information technology firms. “Dr. Pan has tremendous hands-on experience in the provider and payer fields,” Frakes says. “He brings invaluable insight to HIMSS attendees regarding the motivators and concerns driving these important healthcare issues. His practical and technical knowledge gives him a unique perspective on how to effectively integrate the two and positively effect change for all players.”

Dr. Pan’s presentation will address the roles that patients, providers and payers play in today’s fragmented healthcare delivery system, and how their interests converge. He will explore new patient-centric care models and technologies that support the alignment of these interests through a deliberately coordinated approach to healthcare. Dr. Pan will present case study information featuring California organizations that already achieve these objectives through adoption of a comprehensive, Web-based care coordination platform.

Adds Frakes, “Most importantly, Dr. Pan’s presentation will help HIMSS attendees identify areas and opportunities within their own organizations where they can recast traditional roles in order to achieve long-term goals.”

About Health Access Solutions

Founded in 2000, Health Access Solutions delivers a patient-centric care coordination platform that enables physicians, hospitals, payers and patients to collaborate across the care continuum. Access Express™ and Excelicare™ together provide clinical and care management solutions to organizations in the U.S., Puerto Rico, Canada and the U.K., accounting for more than 31,000 healthcare providers as well as eight million patients and health plan members. The company's integrated care coordination platform was designed from its inception to support patient-centric care collaboration models such as the medical home and Accountable Care Organization. Marketed under the Access Express Care Management and Excelicare Clinical Management brands, the transformative Web-based platform enhances clinical decision making through evidence-based clinical decision support and treatment reminders; gaps-in-care alerts; medication and care plan adherence notifications; and real-time quality dashboards, analytics and reporting for individual and patient populations. In addition, it enables secure patient access to summaries of current medical record information, while offering patients the ability to easily communicate online with care providers and office staff for appointment and refill requests or other secure communications. For more information, visit www.HealthAccessSolutions.com.

Health Access SOLUTIONS

Enabling Coordinated Care

###

Media Contacts:

Kat McDavitt
Dodge Communications
770-576-2541
kmcdavitt@dodgecommunications.com

David Murphy
Health Access Solutions
650-358-5759
dmurphy@hasinc.com